Contest Rules & Instructions

-Theme: How does diversity bring us together?

-How to Enter: Mail entries with this form to Read Across America Contest, DSEA, 136 E. Water Street, Dover, DE 19901.

-Deadline: All entries must be received by the DSEA by 5 PM on Thursday, February 22, 2018.

-Questions? Contact Shelley Meadowcroft at DSEA by email at (Shelley.Meadowcroft@dsea.org) or phone (302-734-5834).

-All entries must be submitted with signed parent/guardian approval or they will not be considered during the judging of the contest. If you have a group or class entry, please have one parent/guardian approval for each student involved included with the contest entry.

-All entries must be submitted with the first page of this form.

-Individual students, not groups, should submit poster drawings or essay entries.

-Posters should be no larger than 11x17 in size and reflect how you think diversity can bring us together.

- Essays (high school students only) should be 600-800 words in length and have in-text citations, follow the APA format, and have a references page. The in-text citations should contain the author, date of publication, and the page number or site URL. Please consult your school librarian for assistance with the APA format. The essay should showcase stories of diversity bringing people together or a case study of diversity bringing people together.

-Video entries may be submitted by an individual student, group or a class of students who worked together on the project. Videos should be a maximum of three minutes in length and include a title as well as a credit listing of the students who worked on the project and the names of any teachers or paraprofessionals who advised or helped. Please submit videos on a DVD, flash drive, or email a link to shelley.meadowcroft@dsea.org. Entries can also indicate a URL address for YouTube. Only one video entry per student, group, or class. Videos should reflect how you think diversity brings people together.

-All winners will be featured in an ad in The News Journal and Delaware State News – and all winning artwork, essays, and videos will be posted on DSEA's website.
